

Erin Pickrell grew up watching her mother make a difference in Delaware communities, working with Griswold Home Care for over 20 years. Griswold Home Care's founder's mission of providing every family the benefits and rewards of affordable, non-medical home care in the comfort of their own homes was ingrained in Erin from a young age. When she had the opportunity to bring Griswold Home Care to her home in Maryland, Erin knew that I wanted to serve the seniors in her community with the same care she had watched countless others receive from exceptional caregivers.

With a background of working with small non-profits, Erin has a passion for making a positive impact in the lives of individuals. Her goal is to provide the best experience possible to clients and caregivers. Her passion for service influences everything she does, helping to create an engaged community to provide the best in-home care.
